

Located in the heart of the colourful town of Dingle, Co Kerry, on the southern shores of the Dingle Peninsula, Benners is favoured for its old world charm and ambience, authentic Irish antique furnishings blending with the best of contemporary design. Each of the bedrooms is luxuriously appointed, providing an intimate and cosy setting for a relaxing stay. As Dingle's oldest hotel, Benners reflects the history and uniqueness of the town and peninsula, and makes a wonderful base for exploring the wild beauty of Kerry. Enjoy the spectacular scenery of Sleah Head, the Conor Pass, Inch and Ventry beaches, Fermoy, Castlegregory and Wine Strands, see Fungie, the famous resident dolphin, in Dingle Bay.

Dingle is one of Ireland's largest Gaeltacht towns where you will be surrounded by locals speaking in the tongue of 'Old Ireland'. Dingle in the Irish language is "DAINGEAN UI CHUIS". "Daingean" means fortress; "UI CHUIS" is generally accepted as translating to Hussey . . . Fortress of Hussey, the Husseys being a Flemish family that came to the area in the 13th Century.
